Dear Dean,

I gather you're organizing some sort of metaphysics event for next August. I've seen a list of good people and interesting titles. But there are several things I don't know about it. Where (if anywhere)? When? Whether open to the public or by invitation? And whether it's a conference in the traditional sense, with people reading papers aloud; or whether it's a sort of chat room where computer hobbyists install their papers in the internet and other computer hobbyists try to read them on their screens; or some of each? Thanks very much for anything more you can tell me.

Yours,

David Lewis
